"The Kuwaiti cabinet has resigned and the resignation has been accepted by the emir," the Islamist opposition MP told reporters outside parliament. "We are waiting for the appointment of a new prime minister before parliament is dissolved in order to be assured of fair elections," the lawmaker said. Parliament speaker Jassem al-Khorafi declined to comment on the decision, but said he had not been informed about dissolving parliament. The announcement came after Emir Sheikh Sabah al-Ahmad Al-Sabah chaired an emergency meeting of the cabinet headed by Prime Minister Sheikh Nasser Mohammad al-Ahmad Al-Sabah to discuss the emirate's latest political crisis. Sheikh Nasser, 71, was due to be questioned in parliament by three opposition MPs on allegations of graft including charges that he transferred public funds into his overseas accounts. The government has denied the charges. The move also came ahead of a planned mass rally later Monday by the opposition to press demands for the premier's ouster. Sheikh Nasser, a nephew of the emir, was appointed to the post in February 2006 and has since now resigned seven times due to political turmoil. Parliament has been dissolved on three occasions over the same period. @yahoonews on Twitter, become a fan on Facebook Editors' Picks A Los Angeles Police officer orders an anti-Wall Street protester off the street at the Occupy

Baku – APA. On November 25, 2011, the Director of the Millennium Project Jerome Glenn will deliver a report entitled "State of the Future Index of Azerbaijan 2011" at the Center for Strategic Studies (SAM).

Representatives of SAM, Ministry of Communication and Information Technologies, Azerbaijan National Academy of Science, Azerbaijan Future Studies Society and experts will participate in the event.

It should be mentioned that Jerome Glenn has over 35 years of Futures Research experience working for governments, international organizations, and private industry in Science & Technology Policy, Environmental Security, Economics, Education, Defense, Space, Futures Research Methodology, International Telecommunications, and Decision Support Systems with the Committee for the Future, Hudson Institute, Future Options Room, and the Millennium Project.

Jerome Glenn was the Deputy Director of Partnership for Productivity International involved in national strategic planning, institutional design, training, and evaluation in economic development in Africa, the Middle East, Asia, the Caribbean, and Latin America and created CARINET in 1983 as the leading computer network in the developing world subsequently bought by CGNet. He has been an independent consultant for the World Bank, UNDP, UNU, UNESCO, FAO, UNEP, US/EPA, USAID, and several governments and corporations.
